THE STRUGGLE FOR SUPREMACY

Becomes Keener as the World Grows Older.

In these days of concentration and 100% efficiency, the man who goes into the struggle for business supremacy has dropped with poor health has little or no chance. It is the ruddy-cheeked, bright-eyed, "cracking with vitality" man who dominates and wins out. Johann Hoff's Malt Extract has worked wonders with men who have carelessly permitted themselves to reach that stage of physical breakdown that makes it impossible for them to face their business opponents with confidence in their ability to back the part. Johann Hoff's Malt Extract, the tonic food of the men of the world, is a blood and muscle maker—brings the body back to its normal state, and adds that something to the personality that gives it the edge. Take it tomorrow and take it with your meals. Equally beneficial to women and children. Indorsed by medical authorities and delightfully palatable.—Advt.

LYMAN'S SWINDLES NETTED $700,000, IS ESTIMATE NOW

Federal Officers Sure Prisoner Held in Florida Is New York Fugitive.

INDICTMENT IS FOUND.

Effort to Secure Freedom Blocked—Men on Way South to Get Prisoner.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Postal authorities announced to-day that they were satisfied that the man arrested last night at St. Petersburg, Fla., was John Grant Lyman, wanted in New York for using the mails to defraud and estimated at from $400,000 to $700,000 the amount he is alleged to have obtained through his New York office and branches at Hartford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass.

A statement issued by the Post-Office Department says that after Lyman drew $53,000 from a New York bank and disappeared he was traced to Washington, where he circulated a report that he had sailed for Europe, then to Richmond, Va., St. Augustine and Tampa, Fla.

"There he attempted to give the impression that he had gone to Cuba," the statement says. "It was learned, however, that he had chartered a launch at Clearwater, Fla., and provisioned it for a two weeks' cruise. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 25.—The man arrested here on charges of having obtained more than $500,000 through illegal use of the mails, while maintaining silence as to his identity, took steps to-day to gain his freedom. He engaged a lawyer to bring habeas corpus proceedings for his release. To combat this the authorities were ready to make out a warrant for him under the fugitive act. They expected to hold him until the arrival of officers from New York.

To those who questioned him he declined to say whether or not he is Lyman. Local police, however, declare they are convinced by papers found in his effects and by his resemblance to the New York fugitive that he is the man sought. A resident of Los Angeles, Cal., now here, whose name is known to the police, but withheld at his request, to-day said that the man is Lyman. He said he knew Lyman in California.

Federal officers in New York telegraphed the police to-day to hold the suspect until an officer could reach here. On the yacht on which the prisoner was captured were found several trunks and suitcases containing an elaborate wardrobe, $11,000 in $100 bills and a certified check for $5,364, drawn on "The Manhattan Company of New York" and payable to bearer. There were several indorsements on the check, one of which was the signature of John H. Putnam & Co.

W. H. Smith, one of the men who sold the prisoner the yacht, said he knew him as "Mr. Putnam." Letters found on the prisoner were addressed to "J. H. Putnam."

Dr. J. Grant Lyman, alias John H. Putnam, formerly a broker at No. 58 Broad Street, alleged swindler of national reputation, was to-day indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Lyman, the postal authorities are certain, is the man under arrest in St. Petersburg, Fla., having been captured on his high-powered motor boat while attempting to get out of the country.

Postal Inspectors Swain and Mayhew left for St. Petersburg yesterday afternoon to identify the much wanted Lyman. This morning Assistant District Attorney wired to the authorities at St. Petersburg to hold the prisoner at all costs until the proper papers could be forwarded.

Lyman, it is claimed, defrauded his customers out of between $300,000 and $600,000. He disappeared from his Broad Street office on Feb. 8 and the postal inspectors were at his heels a few hours later. Postal Inspectors Hugh J. McQuillan and Howard B. Mayhew put their men on his track and traced him to Philadelphia, whither he had gone in an auto.

At Philadelphia, Lyman made a deposit, supposedly for his wife, of $10,000 in cash, in the name of Mrs. Jane Hartmann, his mother-in-law. He also exchanged 100 shares of United States Steel, belonging to one of his customers, for their equivalent in Baltimore and Ohio bonds, which he sent to a hotel in Philadelphia for his mother-in-law.

From here the swindler tried to get in touch with his wife through the insertion of "want ads" in various papers. Mrs. Lyman testified before United States Commissioner Gilchrist that she had recognized one of these "ade" as intended for her. It reads: "English butler, eighteen years' service, wants employment. F. B."

The authorities believe that the Lyman had a code and that the innocent looking "want ad" was a clue for the wife to Lyman's whereabouts. He motored from Philadelphia to Washington, where he exchanged his Post Powder stock for other securities. The postal inspectors were a jump behind and followed Lyman to Richmond and then to Tampa, Fla. In the latter place he kept out of sight, learning that the officers were hot on his trail. For five days he subsisted mainly on apples and oranges, which he bought at a corner grocery. He gave restaurants a wide berth.

On last Sunday the fugitive was in Jacksonville, to which place he ordered his trunk, forwarded in the name of Nance Cline.

He failed to claim the trunk and went to Clearwater, where he dismissed his automobile, paying the chauffeur for his hurried trip. He hung about the water front, looking for a high powered motor boat, and finally secured one which went in there from the Great Lakes. He proceeded to the harbor for a two weeks' cruise, and then caused a rumor to be spread that he had gone to New Orleans.

The postal authorities were after him in Clearwater, but lost his trail. They distributed through the various ports of Florida 3,000 photographs of the fugitive, with his description. They telegraphed the authorities at every port to be on the lookout for a high-powered motorboat. Lyman had hardly reached St. Petersburg when he was arrested.

Lyman left Clearwater ostensibly for New Orleans, but he decided on his tracks and ran into the little bay where St. Petersburg is located. Numberless islands dot the harbor and great numbers of motor boats put in there and anchor. The fugitive was so sure that his boat would be overlooked in the big fleet in the harbor. But he reckoned without his pursuers and his trip was brought to a sudden end.

Richmond Girl Aided in Arrest of Man Held to Be Lyman.
(Special to The Evening World.)
RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 25.—The arrest at St. Petersburg, Fla., of the man declared to be "Dr." J. Grant Lyman of New York was brought about, it became known to-day, by Richmond postal inspectors. Before leaving he arranged with her to forward any letters which might be sent in her care. The inspectors got wind of this and with Miss Hampton's aid succeeded in locating Lyman in Florida.

A SHIP AND ITS PORT

Steadily, day by day, a ship at sea plows forward, following a straight, true course toward its port. Our business is like a ship. Day by day we have been pushing forward, steering a straight, true course toward bigger things. In our good ship our store at 6th Ave. and 16th St., we have been plowing steadily forward toward our port—the point we have aimed at for fourteen years. There is the hustle and rush and turmoil of a ship just arrived. We are pushing all the merchandise off our docks—using the derrick of low prices and the gangways of sacrifice pricing. Truly, it is marvelous. The opportunities in our old store now could only happen under such unique conditions. We are preparing to set forth in a new ship—the new store at 25-34-36 West 34th St., between the Hotel McAlpin and the Waldorf-Astoria. There we expect well, that is getting ahead of our story. NOW—we are at our old store and we want every home looper to reap the harvest of advantage which Spear is now offering.
